

Gade's update

Dear my family and friends,

Celebration time with my roommate who just graduated from the University, and she just left to do Thai SBS, School of Biblical Studies, for 4 months. Last couple week were very tough for me because I was struggling with dealing my emotion, for I found myself get angry easily. I tried to get away from people and rested very deep in the spirit, and I'm getting better now.

My family situation

I really concern about my step mom because she has a hard time to trust my dad. She called me once when she wanted to run away from my dad. I keep praying for her to find a good place to rest, for I know that God is a best place to rest in. I have a hard time speaking to her about God on the phone, so please pray that God will open her heart while she was reading my letter, for I'm writing her a letter of encouraging. May God speak to her heart, and may she feel the presence of the Lord.

Ministry Update.

Art Exchange Program to China: I formed a team of 10 people together which has 4 staffs from dance dept., 1 staff from House of One heart, 2 new staffs who just finished the DTS, and 3 students from House of One heart. We have team meeting on Friday regularly, and we try to set up different plans to do Fund Raising, and you will get more information in next update of what we've been doing. Our purpose for going in this time is to perform our Thai Traditional dance to Chinese people, to provide a divine appointment for contacts, and to do spiritual warfare. I've been through many challenging while I was communicate plans and my heart to my teammates, and I've learned to take a chance to grow in leadership skill. I've learned so much for my mistake, and I want to thank you to all of my teammates who allow me to play in leadership role and to take a responsibility from what I've done.

This is my short update for February, and thank you so much for all of your prayers and supports me. May all of you have a wonderful month of March!

Blessings & love,
Gade Rammasoon
